Detailed and Intimate

SIMPLE CHARMS MAKE THIS HOUSE A HOME

Wood creates a wonderful backdrop for a warm and friendly environment and this month's Home of the Month is a classic example. Built in 1989 by the master craftsman owner, this post and beam home was originally around 1300 square feet of living space. As the family grew, so did the house, but much of the original bones and atmosphere remained the same.

Packed with detail, this charming post and beam has undergone many thoughtful additions over the years creating ample living space for the family. Handcrafted oak beams are the focal point of this cozy home and can be found in all of the rooms throughout both floors. Attention to detail and unique angles have long been a trademark of the owner's building style and is evident in the unique sculpted archways and dovetail corners all through the home. Not only do these beams soften the look of the home, they provide a nice contrast to the walls and allow for decoration with large furniture pieces, colorful rugs, fabrics and pottery.

Common to many post and beam homes, the kitchen and dining area flow openly while the low ceilings help create a sense of intimacy. Custom built cherry cabinetry and soapstone countertops mix well with the wide pine flooring and contribute to the richness of the room. And not to be forgotten, quiet nooks for reading are favorites of the family and can be found tucked away around the house, proving that big is not always better.
